

Take your background in the natural or social sciences to the next level with a master's degree in Philosophy

CONTACT US

Department of Philosophy
Jackman Humanities Building
170 St. George Street, 4th floor,
Toronto, ON M5R 2M8
Canada

graduate.phil@utoronto.ca

<https://uoft.me/MA-phil-science>

MASTER'S concentration in PHILOSOPHY OF SCIENCE

Philosophy
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

IF YOU . . .

- Have a strong background in the natural or social sciences
- Want to develop focused knowledge of the methods and perspectives of the philosophy of science
- Wish to better understand the philosophical foundations of your chosen scientific field
- Aim to acquire solid science-writing skills
- Seek to pursue philosophy further academically or wish to excel in interdisciplinary professional work
- Strive to make a difference at the nexus of science, technology, and the humanities

. . . this program is for you.

WORK WITH

Joseph Berkovitz (Cambridge). Philosophy of physics, probability, philosophy of economics.

Franz Huber (Erfurt). Epistemology, logic, general philosophy of science.

Edward Jones-Imhotep (Harvard). History of technology.

Mohan Matthen (Stanford). Philosophy of perception, philosophy of biology.

Michael Miller (Pittsburgh). Philosophy of physics, philosophy of science, metaphysics.

Trevor Teitel (NYU). Metaphysics, philosophy of physics, philosophy of science.

Karina Vold (McGill). Philosophy of cognitive science, philosophy of technology, AI.

Denis Walsh (McGill, London). Philosophy of biology.

Jonathan Weisberg (Rutgers). Decision theory, epistemology.

Jessica Wilson (Cornell). Metaphysics of science.

and many others . . .

WHAT TO EXPECT

Excellence

The Graduate Department in Philosophy at the University of Toronto—one of the best in the world—has a long history of research and teaching excellence in the philosophy of science.

Focus

Take your existing strengths in the natural and social sciences and ground them in solid philosophical and historical foundations.

Collaboration

Take advantage of courses and expertise not only in the Department of Philosophy (with more than 65 faculty members) but also at the Institute for the History and Philosophy of Science and Technology (IHPST), as well as other interdisciplinary centres of world renown at U of T, such as the Schwartz Reisman Centre for Technology and Society.

Funding

The one-year program, which can be completed in two semesters, is fully funded.